N2K Space

MEDIA KIT
Hi.

Welcome to N2K Space. We've had the eyes and ears of aerospace and defense professionals and decision makers for nearly a decade.

We’re the team who built the CyberWire—the world’s largest strategic cybersecurity intelligence network—to over a quarter million listeners tuning in every month. We’re taking what we learned from our Signals & Space briefing and have launched the only daily space intelligence podcast, T-Minus, for the booming space industry. We hope you’ll join us on this journey of growth and exploration.

Our existing audience includes:

- 30,000 monthly downloads
- 13,000+ newsletter subscribers
- 178 countries reached
- 81% of our audience influences the decision-making process
Your mission is our mission.

With over a decade of experience growing the largest B2B audio and intelligence network in cybersecurity, you can rely on us to deliver your message to the top leaders in the space industry. We want to share your voice with our established intelligence network trusted by marketers, business leaders, and senior government executives.

Your organization needs to reach the most influential professionals in the space industry. N2K Space can help.

- Grow your brand
- Educate the industry
- Generate leads
- Attract top talent
The only daily space intelligence podcast.

Every weekday, Maria Varmazis, the host of T-Minus, relays the latest news and insights along with leading experts from industry, academia, research organizations, government, and more. Join us daily in mission control to stay on top of the evolving space market as we help you separate the signal from the noise.

Meet our host.

Maria Varmazis

Maria started her professional career in engineering school, later switching to journalism. She enjoys bringing both experiences to bear in her work. Most of her career has been in information security as a content and communications professional, translating the pressing issues of the day into actionable information for the security community. A lifelong space and astronomy enthusiast, she brings her passion for interviewing and storytelling to cover the burgeoning space industry.

Expect more of this content.

Interview with Master Gunnery Sergeant Scott Stalker from US Space Command on how the command is adapting to new challenges in the digital era of space operations and building the force to deter aggression.

Interview with Michael Madrid from Starfish Space, on in-space servicing, assembly, and manufacturing (ISAM) and Starfish Space’s Series A fundraising round.

Interview with Chad Anderson of Space Capital, on the state of the space economy, venture capital, the unique challenges and opportunities for space businesses.
What’s included:

- 60-second dynamic messages delivered across the network to promote the full interview and your brand.
- Episode page on our website with your logo and message, show notes, transcript, and embedded episode player.
- We will provide you with the embed code for just the interview.
- We post to social media from our accounts with an embedded interview clip and tag your accounts.
- We post to social media from our accounts with a link to the full episode and tag your accounts.
- We will highlight the interview in our weekly Signals and Space email roundup.
- Discount rate for additional paid dynamic messaging in the network.
